1. The Word you have whispered to me in the night
has kindled a heart-flame, it burns hot and bright,
a fire in my bones that I cannot restrain;
I'll shout it from rooftops in full light of day.

2. I'll shout of the death that my Lord died to sin,
and how we can share in the victory He wins:
if we died with Christ we will live on with Him!
His life I'll proclaim with each song that I sing!

3. Alive to my God I now live by His grace,
set free to choose freely to be called God's slave.
Whatever I give to the One who gave all,
the token would ever be vastly too small.

4. I would gladly lose all that this world can take,
possessions and fam'ly, I'd give for your sake.
No, I will not fear, though dark dangers surround,
for if here I lose life, in you it is found.

5. Oh, how we rejoice in the value we have -
for you to snatch us from the mouth of the grave!
You know every sparrow, but we are worth more:
Send us to add people to your treasure store.
