Music: to the tune of FULDA (LM), attributed to William Gardiner

1. We all should have a place called home a place to shelter from the storm We all should be in family where we are loved and safe and warm 2. And some have all these things they need and some have all they need and more but there are those who have much less - the ones we label as being poor 3. If in our wealth we show no care for those who have not what they need if we have much and do not share how wretched is our poverty 4. When we don't share what we call wealth then wealth is lost to all of us if all we've gained from all we've gained is interest on our avarice.
5. So let us be a family where we can all be loved, belong, be rich in sharing, caring joy and be at home, content, as one.
